Conditions of Entry

- Entry forms must be postmarked by the deadline Saturday, August 15, 2009.
- Works of art may be entered in the following two dimensional media: paintings, drawings, graphics, and photography.
- All entries must be original works created by the artist within the past two years.

- The Miller Art Museum provides insurance for accepted works while at the museum.
- Equip artwork with wire for hanging; do not use sawtooth hangers.

Sales

Works of art may or may not be for sale, as each entrant wishes. The Museum retains a 35% commission on each sale, which should be included in the price of the work. For example, if an artist wishes to sell a work for $100 he or she will receive $65 of the price and the Museum will retain $35 when the work is sold. If you have an exclusive contract with a Door County gallery, any artwork sales will be transacted through that gallery. List the gallery name and commission percentage on the Entry Form. The listed commission will be sent to the Door County gallery in the event of a sale and the Miller will waive its commission.

An Important Message to All Entrants

A juried exhibition is by its very nature a competitive event. The artists are selected through a day long process of careful deliberation among the jurors. The panel of jurors changes each year. What they select for inclusion is what that group feels is the strongest work. Just as writers, actors, dancers, and musicians audition for opportunities, so do artists. You may or may not be included in this exhibit. You may or may not agree with the jurors' results. The museum provides this opportunity for artists to have another venue for exhibition, and these are the rules. Museum staff and volunteers appreciate the good sportsmanship of those artists included AND those not included in the exhibition.
